

My Advance Care Plan

My Advance Care Plan

What is this Plan for?

The Plan can help you prepare for the future. It gives you an opportunity to think about, talk about and write down your wishes and preferences for care in the future and at the end of your life.

The Plan can help you and your carers (your family, friends and professionals) to understand what is important to you when planning your care. If a time comes when, for whatever reason, you are unable to make a decision for yourself, anyone who has to make decisions about your care on your behalf will have to take into account anything you have written in your Plan.

Sometimes people wish to refuse specific medical treatments in advance. This Plan is not meant to be used for such legally binding refusals. If you decide that you want to refuse any medical treatments, you may do so using a document called an 'Advance Decision to Refuse Treatment' which you will need to discuss with your doctors.

Remember that your views may change over time. You can change what you have written whenever you wish to, and it would be advisable to review your Plan regularly to make sure that it still reflects what you want.

What should I include in my Plan?

You should include anything that is important to you or that you are worried about. It is a good idea to think about your beliefs and values, what you would and would not like, and where you would like to be cared for at the end of your life.

Will my wishes and preferences be met?

What you have written in your Plan will always be taken into account when planning your care. However, sometimes things can change unexpectedly (like carers becoming over-tired or ill), or resources may not be available to meet a particular need or the health condition that you may develop and could make it hard to follow your wishes entirely.

Should I talk to other people about my Plan?

You may find it helpful to talk about your future care with your family and friends, although sometimes this can be difficult because it might be emotional or people might not agree. It can also be useful to talk about any particular needs your family or friends may have if they are going to be involved in caring for you. Your professional carers (like your doctor, nurse or social worker) can help and support you and your family with this.

When you have completed your Plan you are encouraged to keep it with you and share it with anyone involved in your care e.g. your GP and other health and social care staff. Unless people know what is important to you, they will not be able to take your wishes into account.
